As temperatures soared to the 100-degree range, people flocked to the Wilson Park Pool. One of those was Amy Harrington, 18 months old, who is sliding down the frog slide in the toddlers' pool to a waiting friend.

Worst heat may be past

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Workers in the St. Elizabeth Medical Center emergency room were busy with heat-related cases throughout the weekend, but hospital officials say the worst is probably over.

The National Weather Service is predicting slightly lower temperatures and lower humidity through Thursday.

Kathleen Gauen, SEMC's director of emergency services, said nine people were treated for heat-related illness at the hospital between Friday afternoon and Monday morning. One was admitted to SEMC, while another patient was transferred to Oliver C. Anderson Hospital in Maryville.

'Any summer, even on the best of days, you can have some problems. The people we will have now are the ones who don't pay attention.'

SIU tuition hike OK'd

4.7 percent increase per year approved

CARBONDALE — Southern Illinois University trustees have approved a plan that will increase tuition for full-time undergraduates at SIU-Edwardsville about 4.7 percent in each of the next four years.

A committee on affordability of the Illinois Board of Higher Education had urged universities to adopt multiyear tuition plans to help students and parents better prepare for education costs.

At SIUE, academic year tuition would go to $1,928 next year from $1,849 and increase to $2,214 by the fourth year. The plan will increase tuition for graduate students by nearly identical percentages, reaching $2,372 in the fourth year.

At the School of Dental Medicine in Alton, tuition will increase about 9.3 percent yearly, to $7,413 in the fourth year from $6,200. The plan will increase fees and housing costs at SIUE at rates approximating projected inflation of 3.5 percent yearly so that fees would go to $625 in the fourth year, up from $511, and a typical housing plan would cost $4,190 compared with $3,994.

Similar increases were approved for SIU-Carbondale. Officials said the SIU campuses will continue to offer high-quality education at costs lower than comparable state institutions despite the increases.

Brown selected as development head

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Former Granite City alderman and mayoral candidate Dan Brown will be the city's next director of economic development.

Mayor Ron Selph was expected to make the appointment at Tuesday night's City Council meeting.

"I was very impressed with Brown's credentials during the selection process we held last October," Selph said. "His background in law will be an asset, working out contractual agreements with developers."

Brown, a 12-year Granite City resident, once held a real estate broker's license in Missouri, where he owned and operated a construction dispersing business for several years. Most recently he has been engaged in public relations and marketing in the Granite City area.

He holds a bachelor's degree in political science from the University of Missouri and a law degree from St. Louis University.

"All of these areas of expertise will be very useful in attracting new business and industry to Granite City," Selph said.

Brown and his wife, Rosemarie, own Van Arch and Associates public relations firm in the city. He served as 4th Ward alderman from 1989 to 1993, when he decided to run for mayor along with nine other candidates, including Selph.

Brown finished second in the 10-man mayoral race in April 1993, garnering 2,284 votes to Selph's 3,361.

He said he and Selph see eye to eye on the city's future.

"Mayor Selph and I have had several conversations in the past few weeks and we are on the same page," Selph said. (See BROWN, Page 10A)

Overcrowding takes its toll Tension stays high at jail

It's a scene similar in some ways to a 1940s family eagerly gathered around the radio to catch the latest installment of their favorite serial.

But the similarity gives way to a reality worlds apart. Twenty-one inmates at the Madison County Jail, crowded together in a cellblock built to hold 12 prisoners, are peacefully, unemotionally and intently watching two muscular men club each other with long sticks on a television bolted high on the wall.

And as American Gladiators breaks for a commercial, the uneasy peace begins to crack as the restless inmates start to wander, re-familiarizing themselves with the sterile, putty-colored walls, steel bars — lots of bars — and the stained white buckets that catch the murky water that drips incessantly from the leaking ceiling.

"Dodge the drops," a 26-year-old inmate, held on charges of aggravated assault, says with a gap-toothed grin. "Getting harder to do. You try to dodge a drop and you end up running into the brother next to you. Or stepping on the guy on the floor."

There are an average of 200 inmates in the facility, which is rated to hold 150, and all of them are looking for a diversion. Even in the Madison County Jail, which many inmates call the cleanest and safest holding facility in the area, conditions are bad. Sheriff Bob Churchill says he is concerned.

"You just get a feeling," he said. "You're pretty able to feel something back there — the tension. Hopefully, it doesn't erupt."

Some injuries are accidental.

A 30-year-old inmate shows a blackened ankle, bruised from tripping over another man who sleeps on a foam mattress on the floor because there aren't enough beds. "You are walking on top of people in here," he says.

Other injuries are intentional.

Inmate Ferrell D. "Kingbuck" Jones, 36, of St. Louis, explains. (See JAIL, Page 5A)

Newsboys drive meets basic needs of children

By Jean Abernathy
Staff writer

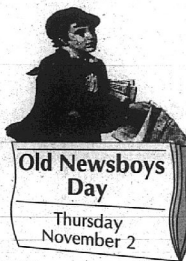

Food, milk, clothing, medicine, toys and books are all things that children need.

Money generated from the 1995 Old Newsboys Day fund drive will be used to help meet these and other basic needs of children in the bistate area.

That is what Old Newsboys Day has been about — meeting the needs of children since it was begun by the St. Louis Globe Democrat in 1955.

Every year the grant requests outpace the money available.

This year, the Suburban Journals has taken steps to increase the amount of contributions since children's charities need more funding than ever. In addition, when the grants are awarded in late November, priority will be given to charities which request money to meet the basic necessities for children — requests for items such as diapers, play equipment, toys (See NEWSBOYS, Page 5A)

9 have picked up school petitions

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Granite City school elections traditionally draw a large field of candidates, and this year will apparently be no exception.

As of Monday, nine candidates, including three incumbent school board members — had picked up petitions to have their names placed on the Nov. 7 ballot in the Granite City School District.

May 30 was the first day potential candidates could legally circulate petitions for signatures to have their names placed on the ballot.

Monday, Aug. 21, will be the first day candidates may file petitions for the Nov. 7 election. The last day to file is Aug. 28.

Candidates' names will appear on the ballot in the order that petitions are filed. If more than one candidate is present at the time the filing period opens — those candidates will be considered to have filed simultaneously and a lottery will be conducted Sept. 6.

Three four-year seats and an unexpired two-year seat will become vacant. Candidates must declare which office they will seek when filing petitions. In the past, candidates have filed for both the two-year and four-year terms and then withdrawn from one of the races after scanning the field of candidates.

Incumbents whose terms will expire are Rick Dickerson (who was appointed to the board last year to fill the vacancy created by the death of Monroe Worthen), Carolyn Nemeth, Jim Noeth and Jeff Parker. (See PETITIONS, Page 10A)

Man gets 75-years for attack on elderly couple

Anthony Townser was spared a life sentence Wednesday, receiving 75 years in prison for murdering an elderly man and severely beating his companion.

"He took the best years of my life," a shaken Bernice Boda testified during the sentencing hearing. "I can hardly eat. I cry all the time. I had never been so happy in my entire life before this happened."

Madison County Circuit Judge Edward C. Ferguson sentenced Townser, 20, to a total of 75 years for the attempted murder of Boda, now 79, and the first-degree murder of her companion, 87-year-old Irwin Dollinger.

Townser received a 50-year sentence for the murder charge and 25 years for the attempted murder charge. The sentences are to run consecutively.

Madison County Assistant State's Attorney Susan Jensen, who prosecuted Townser, requested a life sentence in the Oct. 7, 1993, attacks at Boda's Edwardsville home.

Townser's acquaintance, 17-year-old Kareem Jett, has been convicted in the attacks and is awaiting sentencing. Jett pleaded guilty in January.

Boda, who now stays with friends and family, spent months in hospitals and underwent several operations for head injuries. She said she never missed a dance but now is forced to walk with a cane. A four-inch scar is visible on her scalp.

"I was ready to enjoy myself," Boda said. "My kids were all grown, and I was having a great time. We went on trips, we went to every dance. It was so wonderful. It didn't last."

Boda said she cannot walk without help. "I can't be alone."

Townser, of Edwardsville, and Jett attacked the couple as they were returning to Boda's home from a senior citizens dance in Troy. The two admitted to police that they beat the couple with a brick, a stick and a telephone and slashed their throats with knives.

Dollinger, of Troy, died in a St. Louis hospital three days after the attack. He never regained consciousness.

"He spent most of his time enjoying life," Dollinger's son, Gary Dollinger, said. "He loved playing music for the old folks. He was a very caring and sensitive person."

"He was old in age but a very young person at heart. I would still like to know for what reason they were attacked. It has affected my family and a lot of seniors in the community. I believe (Townser) should give his life for the one he took."

Townser's attorney, Madison County Assistant Public Defender Tyler Bateman, blamed

Townser's actions on an unstable childhood. Townser's mother, DeShell Seward, testified she was 15 years old when she gave birth to him and granted custody to her mother.

Bateman suggested that if Townser had been raised by a parent like Dollinger he would not have committed the attacks. "(Seward) in no way fulfilled her obligation to her son or to society. He grew up between homes," Bateman said.

Townser, who had moved to Edwardsville from Alton about two months before the attacks, told the judge he was sorry. "I realize what I did was wrong. I think about it every day. I have been learning through my mistakes, and I take responsibility. I would like to say I'm sorry to both families for the pain I have caused."

Jensen argued that a life sentence would be fair punishment for the brutality of the attacks.

"I'm sure (Townser) is very sorry he is sitting here today," she said. "I'm very concerned with his attitude. In his first statement (to police) he indicated he was a lookout for Jett. In his second statement he does take some responsibility for the acts. But when we look at his present report, he says he wasn't even there and had no involvement."

MESD may get federal funds

The Metro East Sanitary District stands to receive $3.7 million from the federal government as part of a water appropriations bill approved by the House of Representatives July 12.

MESD President Walter "Shang" Greathouse said the money will be used to replace pump stations and upgrade flood gates along the Mississippi River as part of ongoing projects.

"The whole program, about $40 million worth, was put together six or seven years ago. The (U.S. Army) Corps of Engineers gets its appropriation every Aug. 1 and we match one-fourth of what they give us," Greathouse said.

As an example of district costs, Greathouse said he recently received a $66,421 electric bill for a single pump station for the 30-day period that began May 22.

"That's when we had all that heavy rain," Greathouse said. "This funding will help protect homes and businesses along the Mississippi River which have to rely on federal support," U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello said.

Costello, a Belleville Democrat, said that he was pleased at the funding level given the current congressional tilt toward fiscal frugality.

Other local projects in the water appropriations bill include $2.4 million to complete the Melvin Price Lock and Dam at Alton.

The Senate has not yet approved the legislation.

Russian general to speak in area

By Charles Schoene
Staff writer

Ten years ago, one of Russia's highest ranking military officers was plotting strategy against the Cold War rival Americans.

Now the three-star general is seeking American assistance in the battle to save the souls of his countrymen.

Colonel General Boris Pyankov will share the details of his journey toward Christianity at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Full Gospel Tabernacle in Fairview Heights.

The presentation is sponsored by Alpha and Omega Church in Collinsville, the Belleville Christian Center, the Full Gospel Tabernacle in Fairview Heights, the Metro East Christian Fellowship in Fairview Heights, Redemption Fellowship Church in O'Fallon and the New Hope Church in Collinsville.

Pyankov, deputy chief commander of the Russian military and first deputy on the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will present his message approximately 10 times in Indiana, Missouri and Illinois.

The general's goal, according to Robert Claus, pastor of the Metro East Christian Fellowship Church, is to arouse American interest in evangelizing to Russians.

"He wants to raise enough money to buy a Bible for every Russian soldier," Claus said. "He was also very instrumental in Russia's decision to allow American Christians to enter and evangelize in Russia."

Claus said Pyankov's Bible placement program has distributed 300,000 Bibles but has a long way to go before they can be purchased for every one of the nearly 2.5 million soldiers. Pyankov will be asking for donations to fund the cause.

A 41-year military veteran, 16 as a general and a two-time recipient of the "Red Star of Valor" for his service in the Afghan war, Pyankov is respected and admired by Russians.

"The general is using his visibility and position to advance an idea in which he believes," Claus said. "He's doing a great service for his people."

Claus, who has traveled to Russia to evangelize, said that, despite a few hardliners, the majority of people in that country are eager to learn about Christianity and Americans. The Cold War piqued the interest of the Russian people, Claus said.

"Their government told them we were awful and ours said the same about them," he said. "Now they are curious about our way of life. They really are a loving and giving people."

Fire guts real estate office here

By Bob Slata
Staff writer

To John Royce, the fire that gutted his Madison Avenue real estate office over the weekend is no big deal.

"It's a minor inconvenience for the customers who want to do business in our office today," Royce said Monday. "But other than that, business is still transpiring. We're still listing, selling and closing."

"In fact, we've been telling people business was so hot that the office caught fire."

The business was expected to relocate to 2848 Madison Ave. — next door to the burned-out building — by Tuesday. That building was formerly the law office of James Wallis.

The fire at Century 21 Royce Realty, 2862 Madison Ave., ignited on the first floor of the two-story yellow brick building at about 8:35 a.m. Saturday, according to a fire report.

The report estimates the damage at $100,000. Computers, printers, fax machines, a stereo and other equipment were destroyed.

The report lists the ignition factor as "undetermined" and form of material ignited as "multiple."

Twelve firefighters, two ambulances and three fire trucks responded to the scene and extinguished the fire. Firefighters were on the scene for about an hour and a half.

Royce said he is grateful that nobody was injured. He said his wife had remodeled the interior of the building about a year ago.

"I guess she has some (remodeling) work to do again," Royce said.

He said the telephone number for the new office remains the same as the old number — 876-5050.

BAC instructor honored again

For the second time in two months, Belleville Area College mathematics instructor Dr. Michael Schneider has been honored for his contributions to education.

Schneider of Belleville was one of 35 community college instructors statewide honored as 1995 Outstanding Community College Faculty Members at a banquet held recently in Kansas, Kan.

The award is given by the Illinois Community College Trustees Association (ICCTA), and is presented each year to showcase the many educational contributions made by Illinois community college teachers.

Award winners are nominated by their respective colleges based on criteria including classroom effectiveness, knowledge of subject matter, impact on students and personal characteristics.

Schneider, who has taught virtually every math class offered by BAC in his 23 years at the college, was named BAC's 1995 Faculty Member of the Year in May. Schneider received this honor not only for his years of outstanding performance in the classroom but also for his efforts in promoting math education.

Over the past two years, Schneider, along with fellow BAC math instructor Tom Cochran, has integrated Mathematica, a computer software program, into their curricula. Mathematica allows calculus students to perform numerical, symbolic and graphical computations.

and books. Last year, more than $180,000 was awarded to 250 local children's charities. United Church Neighborhood Houses received funding to purchase children's books. Rural Catholic Community Services received a grant to purchase shoes for needy children. Operation Food Search Inc. was given Old Newsboys Day money for baby food and formula.

The Epilepsy Association of Southwestern Illinois received a grant for its emergency medication program. And Camp Rainbow Foundation was awarded Old Newsboys Day funds for camping equipment for seriously ill children.

This year, Old Newsboys Day will be Nov. 2. On that day, thousands of volunteers will hit the streets to peddle a special edition of the Suburban Journals. Every penny paid for the newspapers goes to benefit children's charities. More than $5.5 million has been raised throughout the history of Old Newsboys Day.

Children's charities interested in receiving an Old Newsboys Day grant application should send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to:

Get benefits and beauty with Decorative Mulch by the experts at

FRANK'S

We've talked about the benefits of mulch many times. And there's a good reason why. Mulch is one of the best friends a gardener can have. It's beneficial, decorative, helps control weeds, protects plants and stabilizes soil temperature. Pretty good stuff, in other words.

Mulch can help prevent that. Wind and water wear away precious top soil. Bare soil is blown about by the wind to coat cars, plants, windows and more with a fine, never-ending layer of dust and dirt. Water wears channels into soil and spreads it onto roads, walks and drives. Mulch puts a stop to all this.

Mulch also prevents the growth of many weeds. And weeds do more than just look ugly. They compete with your desired plants for sunlight, water, nutrients and space. And many times they win the battle. Weeds can also harbor insects and diseases. Mulch won't kill your existing weeds, you'll have to do that. But it will prevent germination of many weed seeds. And the ones that manage to get through mulch's cover will generally be easier to remove.

Mulch helps the soil retain moisture. It does not, despite what some people believe, make the soil capable of holding more water, though. It will keep the soil uniformly moist, which means the soil nutrients are more consistently available to plants.

Mulch keeps soil temperatures cooler in summer. Sort of like natural air conditioning. Mulch protects fruits and flowers. Rain and irrigation water can splash soil onto fruits and flowers, ruining their ornamental value and even spreading disease.

Even during winter, mulch can be beneficial. It prevents soil heaving. Heaving occurs when soil repeatedly freezes and thaws, pushing everything up. If a plant is caught in the middle of all this diarrhea, its roots can be literally ripped apart. And, understandably, they don't care for it.

Mulch is available in many shapes, sizes, colors and materials. You can use bark nuggets, wood chips, stone, plastics and more. Here are some of the more common ones and their benefits.

Black Plastic
Great for large areas, but don't allow water to penetrate. You'll have to punch some holes in it. It's usually covered with a decorative mulch.

Landscape Fabric
Great for large areas, allow water and air to penetrate, they have ultraviolet inhibitors so they don't break down easily. It's also normally covered with a decorative mulch.

Organic Mulches
These include bark and cedar nuggets and wood chips. They're considered decorative, and will gradually decompose, adding organic matter to the soil. They need to be replenished about twice a year.

Stones, Rock, Chips, Etc.
They don't decompose, which means they don't need to be replaced as often. If you have small children present, keep a close eye out when mowing the lawn. When stone mulch and chips get together, the stones can end up in some unusual places.

When's the best time to apply mulch? Now's as good a time as any. Winter mulch should be applied after you've experienced a couple of light frosts.

Never mound the mulch against the stems and trunks of plants. Instead, leave a few inches of bare ground. Rodents like to hide in mulch over the winter, and they're more likely to gnaw on the bark of your trees if you make it easier for them.

Typical morning at county jail

Here's a typical morning of life in the Madison County Jail:

Dawn — Trustees — inmates in good standing who do chores — rise to help start the day. Trustees do odd jobs, including the laundry and dishwashing. Although it's an unpaid position, a trustee might make $5 washing a patrol car as a favor to a deputy. Competition for the positions is fierce.

7:30 a.m. — Lights on. Inmates are awakened. Breakfast, which varies daily, is distributed to the cells until 8:45 a.m.

Unequal portions and lack of coffee have been known to cause fights.

9 a.m. — Until 5 p.m., inmates are shuttled in groups with full armed escort across the city parking lot and East Second Street to the courthouse. This daily ritual occupies several of the department's few jailers throughout the day.

9:15 a.m. — The doctor arrives to examine the sick, the hypochondriacs and the merely bored. The line starts with the female inmates. Most inmates have minor complaints, but several use the occasion as an excuse to get out of their cells — perhaps the only time they'll leave their cells all day.

9:53 a.m. — Two new inmates, brought in overnight, carry rolled-up foam mattresses into an overcrowded cellblock. They keep their glances steadily ahead or down to the floor as they walk.

10:05 a.m. — A disturbance in the female "drunk tank" draws guards from across the building. A lone jailer remains in the men's cellblocks.

10:30 a.m. — Jailers move an inmate from a misdemeanor cellblock to F-Block, known to some inmates as the "Thunderdome" and one of the original "Gladiator" blocks.

"It's like a constant jigsaw puzzle," one jailer says as he moves the name on a large chart.

10:22 a.m. — Jailers call an ambulance to transport a woman from the drunk tank to the hospital. The woman, who had been incoherent since she was brought in, was discovered to be diabetic and was having seizures.

Noon — Lunch. Again, unequal portions have been known to cause fights.

to a newcomer how he was battered during his short stay in the "Thunderdome."

In early June, Jones, taken into custody after an Alton shootout May 23, was allegedly beaten by four or five prisoners in F-Block, also known by some as the "Gladiator" block. Seven deputies responded to the scene and a canine unit was requested, but the inmates returned to their cells before the dogs arrived.

The cellblock was locked down indefinitely and Jones was moved to another cell. He wears orange, the color of a felon, among a crowd of blue, the color of misdemeanor charges.

Because of the overcrowding, jailers no longer have the luxury of being able to separate inmates according to their crimes.

"Now we just stick them where we've got room," Sgt. Steven Dohnal said. Jones filed a lawsuit against the county because of his injuries, one of many lawsuits to come from the jail's amateur attorneys each year. "I got beat for 10 minutes and there was no one around," said Jones, who claims he was attacked simply because he was the new kid on the "block."

But guards and inmates who've heard Jones' story — most have — are unimpressed.

Beatings here are common, they say. "Man, everybody gets beat. I got all of my front teeth knocked out when I got here. If you're not with the gangs, you're going to get whooped," a 27-year-old inmate said. "I'm looking both ways down the cellblock's long hall before continuing in a quieter voice.

"South" is the Gangsta Disciples. All other cellblocks are teeming with inmates, but F-South has only nine — three less than capacity. All other cellblocks are integrated, but F-South is all black. "White won't make it in there. But it don't matter what color you are, you're going to get hammered hard in F-South," the inmate says.

"Then again, you'll get it no matter where you are."

Capt. James Newsome, in his seventh year as jail superintendent, says guards try to prevent violence, but the frequent fights are no surprise. "You may get beaten," he said.

Jailers try to size up inmates before assigning a cellblock. "Some of these guys have been in here 10, 20 times," Dohnal said. "We know them well enough to know how they're going to act. We know to put the weak ones in other cells."

Churchill says his department does what it can to treat the inmates humanely, particularly in light of the fact they have not had their day in court.

"These people have only been accused of a crime. They've not been judged," he said.

His sentiment is shared by many of his jailers. "As long as I don't give me any problems, I don't care what they're charged with," Newsome said.

The cellblock guards say they also know how to relate to their charges. "Most people if you don't give them what you want, they'll give you what you want," Sheriff John Petrowski, a 22-year veteran of the sheriff's department, said.

"You learn that there are an awful lot of nice guys in and out of here where drugs are the problem. It's really sad to see how empty this place would be if there were no drugs."

Today's kind of inmate is a harder, more dangerous person, however, than when the jail opened in 1978. Dohnal says he's seen the percentage of inmates charged with felonies rise

Uphill battle to solve overcrowding trouble

Madison County officials say they've worked quickly to remedy the problems that plague the county jail, but they say they know they're fighting an uphill battle. Work has begun on a $4.8 million, 92-bed addition to the jail that is expected to be completed next June. The project includes a new roof for the leak-ridden facility.

But officials say other steps must be taken to ease the overcrowding predicament.

"(The expansion project) is not a permanent, long-term solution," County Administrator Jim Monday said. "I don't know if the county or any county is ever able to build enough jail space."

The jail, rated to hold 158 inmates, routinely holds more than 200. Looking ahead, County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer of Granite City said he knows the increase in population will necessitate more guards.

"Without a doubt we know we are going to need more people," he said.

The decision to hire more guards will have to wait until November and December's budget negotiations, however. "I wouldn't look for it to be brought in at this time," Hagnauer said.

County and state officials are working to ease the overcrowding burden in other ways, including:

• The Sheriff's Work Alternative Program. Through a grant from the Illinois Criminal Justice Authority and matching funds from the County Board, the county is able to allow offenders to work off their sentences on public service projects rather than serve a jail term.

• State legislation forcing adequately employed offenders to pay for their incarceration. Effective July 1, county jails can require offenders to pay for their boarding. The County Board is discussing implementing the new law.

• Two-way video link. The system would eliminate the need to move prisoners from the jail to the courthouse for initial appearances, bail hearings and other non-evidentiary proceedings.

Proponents hope the system will expedite the judicial process.

— From the Alton Telegraph steadily throughout the years he's worked in the jail.

In June, the jail population averaged about 90 percent felony suspects with at least 16 inmates charged with murder.

"These young kids, they have no respect for anything, for some long-term inmates have authority, for family. It's changed," Dohnal said.

Churchill says the combination of overcrowding and more violent inmates is worrisome. Although jail design makes riots unlikely, guards still have to be more alert — particularly with the department in desperate need of 12 to 15 more jailers, he said.

One inmate who has been held in the jail for more than a year without going to trial has been moved frequently from cellblock to cellblock because of his threats to guards and other inmates. Churchill says he understands why the man would be frustrated.

"I can't say totally I don't blame him. If I was in jail, I'd want to see a light at the end of the tunnel. These guys can't see a light at the end of the tunnel."

Churchill says the wheels of justice are moving slowly and some long-term inmates have never been judged.

On the other hand, more than a dozen convicted criminals are still being held in lieu of transfer to a state penitentiary, he says.

"And I don't know why," Churchill said. "That's what my argument is about."

Inmates say they would still rather stay at the Madison County Jail than other facilities because the time they serve in Edwardsville is time they can get credit for if they ever are convicted and sent to the penitentiary.

One inmate said, "I told my attorney to leave me in here as long as possible."

•Heat

In two cases Wednesday afternoon, the victims were placed in intensive care after being found unconscious outdoors.

As of Monday, one had been released, while the second remains in the hospital, officials said.

Gauen said the change in weather and increased awareness means the worst is probably over. However, she added that the hospital will probably continue to treat some heat cases throughout the summer.

"Any summer, even on the best of days, you can have some problems," she said. "The people we will have now are the ones who don't pay attention."

She still advised drinking plenty of fluids and being careful outdoors.

Greg Lewis of the National Weather Service said the high pressure system that brought all this heat has moved east, and has been replaced with a slightly cooler and drier high-pressure system.

Temperatures reached 101 degrees Thursday and cooled to highs of 99, 98 and 94 degrees Friday, Saturday and Sunday, respectively.

Those changes brought some showers and cooler temperatures Sunday evening, as the low dipped to 74 degrees.

On Monday, temperatures were expected to reach the low 90s, while the humidity level was moving downward. "It looks like the next few days are going to be less humid," Lewis said Monday. "There wasn't a whole lot of temperature difference, but it was a lot drier." However, the real treat was expected to be Monday evening, as temperatures were expected to drop into the mid-60s, according to Lewis. On Tuesday through Thursday, Lewis said, highs will be in the low 80s, with higher temperatures and humidity coming back Friday.

However, he said temperatures were not expected to equal last week's. "It should be nice," he said.

Rental rehab funds are available

Madison County Community Development has funds available through its Rental Properties Program to rehabilitate buildings used for rental housing.
Low interest rate combination loans (zero percent to two-and-one-half percent), up to a maximum of $15,000 per unit, will be made to assist with the cost of renovating qualified rental units in targeted areas of Madison County. Property owners or developers may apply to Madison County Community Development.
The funds provided will be used to rehabilitate existing structures planned for single-family or multifamily rental housing in Granite City.

As a condition of funding, owners must agree to make the units available to tenants with lower incomes for the area and make repairs consistent with Madison County Community Development's housing quality and rehabilitation standards.

The Comprehensive Housing Affordability Strategy (CHAS) prepared by Madison County Community Development identified a need to improve the rental housing stock in Madison County. Mayor Ron Selph said he believes the improved rental housing stock created through this program will greatly benefit area citizens.

"The city of Granite City proudly joins with Madison County in support of the Rental Properties Program and looks forward to the completion of affordable rental housing units," Selph said.

To receive additional information or request an application, please contact: Madison County Community Development, 130 Hillsboro Ave., Edwardsville, Ill., 62025.

Juniors end rough season with a bang

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

Coming into the final turn of the season, the Junior Triplets would like to steady the ride a little. The Juniors ended their regular season Sunday night in grand fashion, but as is the norm this summer, it was just the top end of an up-and-down week.

On Sunday, Tri-City took it to Trenton, a team that had beaten Edwardsville and Belleville — the two divisional front runners — in games played on Saturday.

The Junior Triplets defeated Trenton 12-2, behind the big effort of pitcher Kyle Briggs, who took a no-hitter into the fifth inning. Briggs eventually lost his shutout, but Paul Kacera came in to finish off Trenton (11-9). Tri-City finished the regular season at 12-9 in league play and 14-10 overall.

The win capped off an interesting weekend of play, as the Juniors added a come-from-behind 6-4 win over Alton on Friday, followed by a 1-0 win during the hands of O'Fallon on Saturday.

After the big wins by Trenton, and the big loss by Tri-City, Junior Triplets manager Chad Lignoul agreed it could have been a case of his team being up and Trenton being down.

"You have to wonder," he said, "but we just came out and jumped all over them, and Kyle had their number through the first half of the game. Some days you come out and play well, and other times you just do nothing."

Nobody knows that better than Lignoul. His team has never won more than three straight and never lost more than two straight this summer.

"Even in the O'Fallon game, it was scoreless through four innings. Then they came out and scored eight runs in one inning, then closed it out the next. You never know what will happen."

In Sunday's game, the hitting stars were numerous. Dave Parker and Tim Wallace were the big hitters, each going 2-for-3 with four RBIs.

Steve Logan was 2-for-3 as well, and John Burnett was 1-for-2, with a big hit early in the game.

"We hit the ball well," Lignoul said. "We've done that often this season, but just not consistently well."

On Friday, Tri-City rallied to tie the Alton, then won the game in the eighth inning. Lignoul said he thought after that game his team would be up for the O'Fallon contest.

"It didn't happen that way. That's the kind of year it's been for us, up one time and down the other. We just

Runaway Clippers can't be stopped

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

They win the close ones. They win the easy ones. At this point, it's hard to say who will be the one to stop the runaway freight train known as the Granite City Clippers.

Granite City won four more Mon-Clair games over the weekend — against good competition at that — and the Clippers seem destined to win the North Division and go into the playoffs with abundant confidence.

What's that you say, your No. 2 pitcher is hurting? No problem, just put another one of your quality arms out there and let him dominate a game.

In a weekend that would test the limits of most pitching staffs, and with Brian Harshany still unable to throw, Corey Dickerson emerged from the Clippers' dugout to get the win, as Granite City defeated Millstadt 15-0 in the first game of their doubleheader played on Sunday in Millstadt.

The Clippers went on to sweep their second twin bill of the weekend with a 5-4 victory in game two, behind the pitching of Mark Winfield.

Dickerson had spent some tough times on the Clippers' bench this year, waiting for his chance to redeem himself. Earlier in the year, he struggled at times on the mound, but his pitching was the most pleasant aspect of Sunday for Clippers player-manager Daren DePew.

"That was really nice to see," said DePew. "He had had some tough innings this year, but he went out and showed everybody what he's capable of. I think he improved his own confidence."

Dickerson struck out one and walked just one batter, while scattering four hits. DePew said

"We have a lot of cohesion on this club."

— Daren DePew
Clippers' player-manager

Dickerson, a power pitcher in high school for GCIS, needs to pick his spots at this level.

"He hit his spots, and had good command of his pitches. He's not going to blow anybody away in this league, he has to use his control, and that's what he did today."

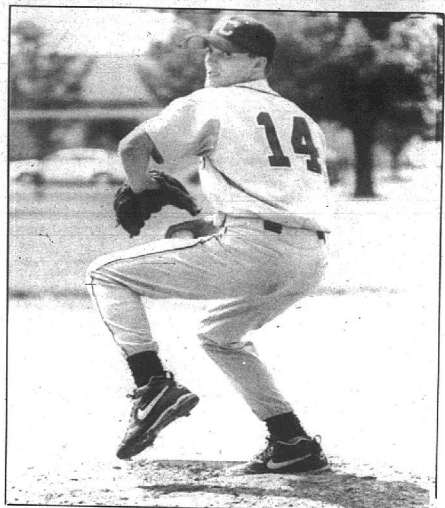

Meanwhile, Harshany, who saw time Sunday as the designated hitter and third baseman, is still resting his shoulder. He has a doctor's appointment coming up this week, but DePew said he doubted if Harshany would pitch again until the playoffs begin.

"I don't want to take any chances with it, and I know (Harshany) doesn't want to, either. We hope it's just the muscle in his shoulder, and not anything worse. We hope to survive without him until then."

Counting Harshany, Granite City (18-2 in league play) now has five quality starters they can put in the mound with a good chance to win — no matter who pitches.

And the hitting isn't bad either. The Clippers amassed 19 hits in the first game Sunday, and 15 more in the second game off of Mon-Clair All-Star Roy Tippet.

Local is among best racers

ATV champion doesn't compete for the money

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

Gaylon Harris of Granite City is one of the best all-terrain vehicle (ATV) racers in the area, and he's proved it.

Harris won the Missouri State Championship last year, and he's in the running again this year after a win at Kahoka, Mo. on July 8.

Although there is nowhere in the immediate Granite City area in which to race or practice ATVs, Harris has still maintained his excellence. He races in the Belleville Millstadt area, but most races are held in Missouri.

The 34-year-old Granite native also won the District 18 championship last year, as well as the Southwestern Illinois racing series. He said he's not sure if that has ever been done before.

"Several races make up a series, and in Missouri it's 10 races throughout the season," he said. "To win three series in one year was quite an achievement, especially for a guy my age."

The going has been tougher this year, mainly because Harris has been dropped down one class. He raced in the 30-and-over class last year, but this season that class was changed to 35-and-over, meaning he has been competing against racers in their teens and twenties.

"It's hard to keep up with some of those guys, but I'm holding my own," he said.

Harris said he got into ATV racing about six years ago, when a friend that worked at a motorcycle dealership told him about the racing. Harris races strictly four-wheeled ATVs, because the three-wheeled bikes were outlawed several years ago. The ATV racing season begins in April and ends September 30.

Harris races strictly for the love of it, as no prize monies are offered, even to the winners of most races.

"The expert class gives cash prizes to the winners, but at the last race that was like $100," he said. "And those guys are some of the best in the nation. I have a lot of trophies and plaques, but that's about it."

He said he has no sponsorship per se, but he does get some help from area businesses, including Matt's Mufflers in Granite City, Bob's Cycles in Madison, Ted's Motorcycle World in Alton and County Motorcycle Parts in St. Louis.

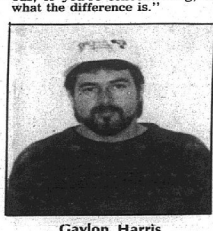

"And I'd also like to thank my wife (Margaret) for putting up with all of this," he said. "This would be tough without all of them."

Harris is hopeful that he can capture the series championships this year, having placed first once, with two seconds, a fifth and a 15th-place finish this season.

He said the racers compete in all types of weather conditions, and on all types of landscapes. "A big part of the thrill for me is that you get to drive across lands that you would never otherwise get a chance to," he said.

He said he has never been hurt while racing, and both times it was while practicing, he said. "I don't know if it's because you're more serious, or you're concentrating, or what the difference is."

Area standouts and PSG vets comprise the Open Division

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

A veteran team of soccer players should be a real threat to win it all this weekend, as action begins Friday at 12 p.m. on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The Southern Division Women's Open Division team features a lineup full of area standouts and experienced PSG players.

Coaching the Women's Open team will be Gene Briggs, who switched over this year from the scholastic women's team. Briggs is a Granite City native who is coaching his tenth PSG team.

He will be assisted by Deana Wallace, a Collinsville native who will also be playing again for the Southern Division.

Although Briggs is new to the Open Division, he has worked with most of the girls on his team at the scholastic level.

"I've had the pleasure of working with many of them in other years, and it's certainly a joy to be coaching them again," said Briggs. "I'm very excited about this weekend, and I know the girls are as well. Anybody who wants to see some good soccer action can come out to Edwardsville and see some of the best players to come from this area."

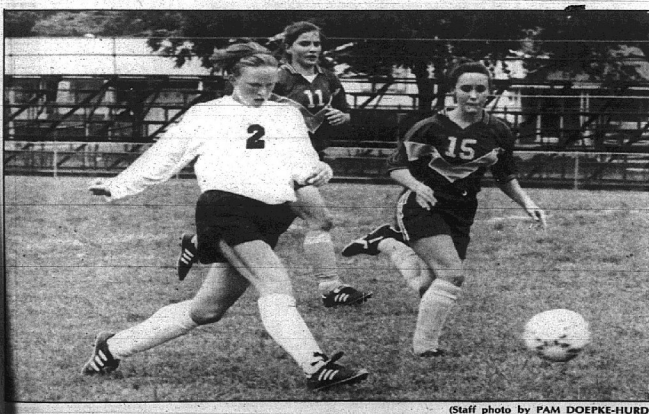

As usual, the local area dominates the Southern Division roster. All of the women's players are from the Madison St. Clair County area.

There are nine players from Collinsville and six from Granite City — 15 in all — on the 18-player roster. Also on the team will be a player each from Edwardsville, Alton and Alaska.

Alaska? That's true, as SIUE freshman Lynda Stehlik (midfield) is among the players competing for Briggs.

Scholastic Women's soccer team hopes for success at State Games

(Staff photo by PAM DOEPKE-HURD)

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

A talented group of local soccer players and an experienced group of coaches should mean success for the Southern Division Scholastic Women's soccer team this weekend at the 12th Prairie State Games.

The scholastic women will hope to continue a tradition of excellence at the Games. The Southern Division has medaled in every year of the games, and has won the gold medal four times.

Moving over from the open women's division will be a group of soccer coaches with a wealth of PSG experience.

Eric Mitchell will be the head coach, but he will be closely assisted by Terry Schuler and Matt Strathman.

Mitchell is a Collinsville native, and a graduate of CHS in 1983, the year Collinsville won its first state championship. He went on to graduate from Southern Illinois at Edwardsville, and he is coaching his sixth season at the PSG.

Strathman is a graduate of St. Louis University High School, and he will coach the goalkeepers this year.

Schuler is a Granite City native, and a graduate of GC South High School, Lindenwood College and the University of Central Florida. She has been a part of the Games since its inception, and she has missed only one of the 11 previous Games. This will be the first year that she will not play in the Games.

Schuler said she is optimistic about the team's chances, and added that the team has had a good deal of practice time, despite the weather.

"It's always competitive, and you never know what the other teams will look like, but I think we have a real talented team this year," she said. "The two other teams we usually have to look out for are North Shore and Pioneer. We had some good, close games last year."

Pioneer Division took home the gold last year at the PSG, while North Shore finished second and the Southern Division took the bronze.

As is the norm in the Southern Division, most of the players on the team are from the Metro East area, especially Granite City and Collinsville. But Schuler was happy to report that the soccer excellence seems to be spreading out from this area.

"We have players from Bethalto this year, and a few from O'Fallon, and we had tryouts players from Carbondale and Alton this year," Schuler said. "A couple of them weren't quite up to standards, but a few years ago it was just Granite and Collinsville, so we're seeing more and more good players from across the region."

On the scholastic team this year are Granite City players Amanda Nizinski (midfield), Kristin Knox (back), Kelley Williams (midfield), Staci Dowdy (forward), Jen Splaingard (midfield), Roxanne Simpson (forward), Shannon Roth (keeper) and alternate Jennifer Willman (midfield).

(See SOCCER, Page 2B)

Staci Dowdy battles Liz Reiff (15) and Shannis Stock (11) for the ball. Dowdy will be a forward in her 4th Prairie State Games.

O'Fallon has three players on the team: Jennifer Hasselhorst (back), Shannon Stock (back) and Jessica Sulentic (midfield). Behalson has a pair of players, midfielder Holly Houston and forward Megan McKelvey. The other player will be Highland's Rita Durbin, a midfielder.

"Our practices and scrimmages have been very good, and some of the girls have been playing in tournaments," Schuler said. "We should be ready to play, we just don't know what to expect from the other teams. But we're all very excited about it."

Blaney beats Kinser to Outlaw Series cash

Dave Blaney parlayed his front row starting position Saturday into his first World of Outlaws SKOAL Outlaw Series "A" Main victory since 1985.

Blaney led every lap despite a lap six red flag and constant pressure from Steve Kinser. The $6,000 victory was Blaney's 10th on Tri-City's half-mile since 1985.

"I've got thank my crew and Kenny Woodruff because they've been working awful hard," Blaney said in Victory Lane. "I'd like to say we weren't running great and I made a few mistakes but we lucked out and got here. We're running a little better here and we hope to keep it going. There's a bunch of guys out there running good and we're definitely one of them. We need to pick up the pace in the second half and see if we can get the championship."

A lap six red flag for Mike Steffa bucked up the field but when the green flag flew Blaney charged away from Kinser. The pair wove through lapped traffic as if joined together but Kinser could not get close enough to pass. Rounding out the top ten were Kinser, Jeff Swindell, Andy Hillenbrand, Greg Hodnett, Bobby Davis Jr., Jac Haudenschild, Randy Hannagan, Lance Blevins and Danny Lasoski.

The Snap-On Tools heat races went to Jimmy Brewer, Stevie Smith and Van Gurley while Blaney took the Vivitar Dash. The EcoWater Fast Time Award went to Steve Kinser with a lap of 17.388 seconds.

In companion action, Greg McRay won his first Grand American Modified feature over Wayne Downing and Troy Walker. Pat Ryan won his sixth Red Dog Pro Stock feature over Terry Chester and Tom Ogden. Dennis Warrle was victorious in the Tri-City Street Stock division.

Tri-City Speedway offering free races for rain delay

Tri-City Speedway in Granite City is making a special offer to fans who attended the July 16 World of Outlaws SKOAL Racing Series. Fans who present their ticket stubs from July 16 will get in free to the Saturday, July 22 Clark Racing Series, Tri-City owner Bob Wente announced today.

"We'd like to show our appreciation to the fans who waited out Saturday night's rain delay preceding the World of Outlaws sprint car program," Wente said. "We received a one-inch rainstorm just as the World of Outlaws were preparing to take to the track and the fans were very patient while we worked to get the track in back into top form. We just wanted to make this offer to say thank you."

The Clark Racing Series features the SKOAL Racing Sprint Cars, Budweiser Grand American Modifieds, Red Dog Pro Stocks and Tri-City Street Stocks. Gates open at 6 p.m., with racing at 7:30 p.m. Tri-City Speedway is located one-half mile south of Interstate 270 on Highway 203 south (exit 4).

(Wednesday) in order to seed the teams in the two divisions. Tri-City hopes to be placed in one of the top three seeds. The top three in each division receive byes in the first round of the playoffs. The bottom four must play a single-elimination tournament to decide the No. 4 team. The four will then meet in Edwardsville next week to play a double-elimination tournament to decide the divisional champion.

Lignoul feels that Edwardsville is the choice for the No. 1 seed, but he is not so sure about the rest.

"I think the next two spots are between us, Highland and Alton," he said. "They look at the records first, and then if there's a tie they look at head-to-head games."

"For educational reasons, she happened to come to Edwardsville to play college soccer," Briggs said. "We are very fortunate to have her — she was the high school player of the year last year in Alaska. She is extremely talented."

Also playing for the Southern Division will be Alton's Camie bechtold, a junior forward at Quincy College, and Alison Arnold, a back from Florissant Valley College and an Edwardsville grad.

Included in Granite City's Southern Division contingent will be Julie Dempsey (midfield; Lindenwood College), Julie Golan (back, DePaul Univ.), Stephanie Kuit (keeper, SIUE), Beth Ann Rapoff (back, Evansville), Suzanne Stuart (midfield, Lindenwood) and Amanda Witter (back, SIUE). Collinsville's nine includes Jamie Casillas (forward, Lindenwood), Caryn Chasteen (midfield, Lindenwood), Jackie Herren (back, Lindenwood), Christi Miller (keeper, Evansville), Becky Thompson (forward, SIUE), Kim Thompson (forward, SIUE), Wallace (midfield, SIUE) Lori Williamson (midfield, SIUE) and Kelli Black (back, William Woods).

Players for the Open Division must be in college or graduated from college.

"We have an excellent mixture of current college players and graduates," said Briggs. "Past and present at the college level, our roster reflects many great players over the last few years."

"We have a combination of good scorers, hard-working midfielders, skilled, hard-nosed defensemen, and two of the greatest goalkeepers ever to play in this area. We feel like we have a wide range of possibilities, with no real weaknesses anywhere."

Women's soccer action begins this Friday at SIUE, with scholastic games beginning at 12 p.m. and open games starting at 2 p.m. The finals will be played on Sunday, July 23 at Goelker Stadium. The scholastic gold-medal game will be played at 10 a.m., and the open gold-medal affair will begin at 2 p.m.

In the second game, Darin Hendrickson was 3-for-4, as was Jeff Ridenour. DePew was 2-for-4 with a homer and four RBIs. Jamie Hogan was 2-for-3, while John Moad and Harshany were each 2-for-4. Hendrickson also came in to get the final out in the seventh to preserve the win for Winfield.

In the first game Sunday, John Spotsnik was 3-for-5 with three RBIs, and DePew was 3-for-4 with another homer and three RBIs. Ridenour was again 3-for-4 with a pair of doubles, and Harshany, Moad, Jeff Stephens and Tim Hogan added a pair of hits.

DePew said it was also good to see Ridenour coming on with the bat, and he added the first-year Mon-Clair player was fitting in well, both on the field and on the bench.

"We have a lot of cohesion on this club," he added.

One would assume that with the experience and determination on the Clippers team, a playoff showdown with the Waterloo Blues is a given.

That's why the next couple of weeks looms tremendously large for Granite City. The Blues and the Clippers will each play at the Prairie State Games this weekend, and it is possible that the two could meet in one of the games.

POSTAL NOTES

Simplicity is good.

To help Postal products and services keep pace with today's marketplace, we're starting to simplify the whole classification and pricing system.

With help from customers, suppliers and employees, we have designed a new, streamlined rate structure that allows us to match pricing more closely to our customers' needs.

First-, second- and third-class mail would be restructured and simplified to make it easier for business mailers to choose the most cost-effective level of service, which not only saves money but is less labor-intensive.

Customers who prepare their mail to take advantage of USPS automation would benefit from lower prices and greater efficiency.

All of these changes would help our customers take advantage of the choices available through our whole range of services. The U.S. Postal Service is a universal delivery system with one of the world's lowest pricing structures. And now the prices will be easier to understand.

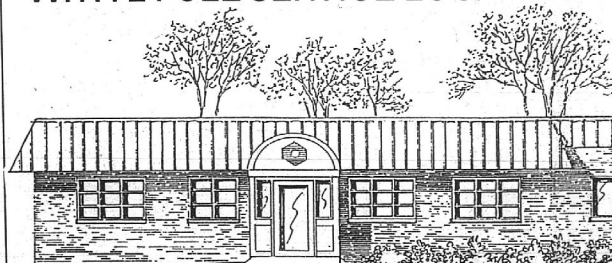

This Classification Reform is just one of many plans we have for self-improvement. We'll keep you posted.

Wilkinson is one of 1,148 men and women aboard the ship who completed the 23,000-mile voyage, which began in late November.

Wilkinson's ship served as a floating repair facility for forward deployed U.S. Navy surface ships. Wilkinson's ship also is equipped with machine shops and a foundry for making parts. Machinist mates and machinery repairmen using lathes and boring machines milled parts to one-thousandth of an inch.

Some of the crew members are certified to weld and repair components of shipboard nuclear power systems while others can perform underwater welding. During the six-month voyage, the crew cooked more than 78,000 pounds of meat, consumed more than 17,000 gallons of milk and washed 90,000 pounds of laundry.

Wilkinson also has visited Bali, Guam, Hawaii, Hong Kong, Japan, Singapore, Thailand and the United Arab Emirates. While in Sasebo, Japan, sailors from Wilkinson's ship volunteered their free time to wash and clean the floors and windows of a local three-story nursing home.

The 1986 graduate of Edwardsville High School joined the Navy in October 1986.

How typecasting, Batman!

Adam West has come to terms with his caped alter ego

A bunch of kids in a downtown Manhattan movie theater are screaming, laughing, hollering and frantically pushing three buttons built into the arms of their seats as they try to control the plot of the film they're watching. Eventually, the bad guy comes on screen.

"That's the old Batman," a teen-age boy blurts out amid the cacophony.

Yes, boys and girls, it's Adam West, playing an alien posing as the CEO of a multinational corporation, sponsor of a bicycle race on which the fate of the world rests.

He's the heavy in "Ride For Your Life," a hybrid of a movie and a video game.

"I thought it was a Western," West cracks in explaining why he decided to do the gimmicky little feature that lasted a short time at theaters this spring.

With the same soothing baritone that dripped with irony way back in his mid-'60s series, the actor says he again wanted to be "part of something innovative, that is on the cutting edge. And forgive my referring to 'Batman' but that was cutting edge." Geez! You mean that's not a Holy Rose Point, Adam?

Not anymore, he says. Despite the release of "Batman Forever" (starring Val Kilmer, who sneers, "Television reduces the standards of the culture to the standards of television"), West remains forever Batman to many people.

The 56-year-old actor concedes, though, that his campy old superhero role sunk its teeth into his career.

"That typecasting is a mean, long-fanged yellow dog that grabbed my leg about 3 in the morning at least once a week," he says during an interview in Manhattan's SoHo neighborhood. "It was tough to deal with."

And it took more than a few dog-years to put that pup to sleep.

"I guess if you just hang around long enough, people think you're good. I don't know," he says.

Another explanation he offers: "The people who grew up with 'Batman' are becoming the people of influence at the studios. 'As a result, I've gotten some terrific opportunities lately,' he says.

He's appeared on "Lois & Clark," "The Simpsons" and "Hope and Gloria." And last year, he even received some good notices for playing Peter Weller's father in the Michael Tolkin film "The New Age."

Come fall, he'll star in the new Comedy Central series "The Clinic," described as a cross between "ER" and "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest."

Still, it was frustrating to break out of the Bat shadow.

"I'd go in to have meetings about different roles that were more serious or substantial than what one might have considered Batman to have been," he says. "They'd usually wind up saying, 'Batman can't be in bed with Faye Dunaway.'"

"I'd go in to have meetings about different roles that were more serious or substantial than what one might have considered Batman to have been," he says. "They'd usually wind up saying, 'Batman can't be in bed with Faye Dunaway.'"

He recalls doing a lot of different things before "Batman," including a series of commercials for Nescafe Quik in which he did a spoof on James Bond. Three years after the 1966-68 series folded, he found out that he'd been the eyes and ears of ABC and the show's producers at Fox looking to cast "Batman."

'Congo' has few redeeming features

The greedy head of the communications conglomerate Travicom has decided to mine rare, blue flawless industrial diamonds in the remote Virunga Volcano region of Zaire-Rwanda-Uganda. He sends in a team to locate the diamonds, which would be used to create a tool that would allow the corporation to dominate not only communications but weaponry.

But the field expedition — including the CEO's son — is wiped out by an unknown creature seen only in flashes on a satellite message.

That's the set-up for "Congo," based on the Michael Oricrion thriller, but any thrills quickly dissolve to silliness in this Frank Marshall film, written by Academy Award-winning screenwriter Patrick Shanley ("Moonstruck").

The project's supervisor, Karen Ross (Laura Linney), is ordered in to investigate. She piggybacks a ride with primatologist Peter Elliot (Vic Wahl), who is going to the volcano area to return his experimental gorilla Amy to her home. Amy, who has learned sign language, is able to wear a computerized glove that allows an electronic voice to "speak" for her.

Meanwhile, a hustler named Herkimer Homolka (Tim Curry) latches onto the expedition. His goal: to find the lost city of Zini and claim its treasures.

Once in Africa, the group gets picked up by guide Monroe Kelly (Ernie Hudson), who seems to have some sort of CIA or mercenary training.

After dodging rebel bullets and watching as the plane of another Travicom expedition is shot down, they escape, finally stumbling upon the lost city and discover what killed the other expedition.

"Congo" is about as stereotypical Hollywood as you can get, right down to the fake gorilla and the truly awful Eastern European accent used by Curry. There's also a dumb and gratuitous racial reference uttered by Hudson: "I'm your great white hunter though I happen to be black." Duh.

The movie even comes

"I'd go in to have meetings about different roles that were more serious or substantial than what one might have considered Batman to have been. They'd usually wind up saying, 'Batman can't be in bed with Faye Dunaway.'"

— Adam West

Certainly, people like Sean Connery finally shook off their typecasting, although West acknowledges that Connery — the definitive Bond — did better movies to get un-Bonded than he did.

"I really did pretty much anything that came along. It was like, you know, mortgage money. I always felt that it was obligatory to keep working, that an actor should work at his craft. I've done that. I've been in a lot of things, stupid movies, lots of appearances, circuses, avant-garde theater."

He thought he was "riding a dead horse" with Batman for a long time. But the bat-facts are that the old series is rerun in many U.S. television markets, including Fox's cable channel FX, and it airs on prime time in England again.

So now he thinks of Batman as "a very lively horse. And it just keeps running full speed. So I guess in a way, I'm just hanging on, hanging on to the reins."

"Now, it's more a matter of co-existing, and making an agreement with Batman. And I think I've done that. First of all, I imagine there are thousands of actors who would love to be in my position, and to have done a classic television series that goes on and on. And I'm not about to knock it. I love Batman."

"I think it was fun. And I know the reaction it's had and the warmth, the kind of reception it continues to get all over the world. So I think I'd be pretty stupid, really, to resent, and not acknowledge it."

He'd even do "Batman" again, though on the big screen, not another television series.

West, who lives in Idaho with his wife of 25 years and the youngest of his six children, outlines a plot in which Batman finds out his father had a brother who's a famous criminologist. They hook up, and West's character serves as an avuncular mentor, a la Connery playing Indiana Jones' father.

"And who knows?" continues West, who doesn't look much different from the time he and Robin were bob-bob-bobbin' along (he had a slight gut then, too).

"I don't get too old too fast, some of those opportunities might come along now," he says. "I've always thought of myself as kind of a character actor, so I think I'll have some longevity. I've already had 30 years. I've fooled people somehow, so maybe it'll continue."

Family members share success in GED classes

Taking classes with a friend or loved one has become a common theme in Belleville Area College's GED classes.

"A common theme was, 'I knew I should do this but I needed someone to urge me on. It was more fun and easier when you have someone with whom you can worry and study,'" Suzanne Dailey, director of BAC's GED program, said.

More than 573 people who attended BAC's free GED classes in the past year have tested successfully to receive their graduation certificate.

This is the highest number of graduates in the history of BAC's GED program, Dailey said.

The second highest number of GED graduates was 569 in 1992.

A commencement ceremony for the GED program was held June 1, at the BAC campus.

The graduates included students from St. Clair, Madison, Monroe, Randolph, Bond, Washington, and Clinton counties.

At the ceremony, the Belleville News Democrat GED Endowment scholarship was awarded to Chris Wannamaker of Mascoutah and the Sheriff Mearl J. Justus Endowment scholarship was awarded to John Hendrickson of Belleville.

Wannamaker plans to study drafting at BAC. Hendrickson, who already received his GED certificate, is enrolled in Administration of Justice classes at BAC.

Student speakers at the ceremony included Rosie Cohen of Lebanon, Jason Malson of Granite City and Angie Rivas of Cahokia. Rivas was part of a new family learning program.

Dailey said a large number of GED students brought either a friend or family member with them to class.

Graduation stories included:

- William Potter and his son, Michael Potter, both of Cahokia, attended class together and took the test together.

Both of the Potters plan to take college credit courses at BAC. William wants to study mathematics and Michael wants to study drafting.

Neida Niles and her daughter, Teresa Niles, attended class together at the Monroe County Fairgrounds.

"I always wanted to take the GED test," Neida said. "When Teresa said she was going to class, I decided to go with her."

The two helped each other in class and helped their classmates as well. Both women scored exceptionally high on the GED test. Teresa has applied to attend BAC, and is applying for scholarships as well.

chance to finish high school. When she heard that BAC was offering a GED class in her hometown of New Athens, she decided to sign up.

She also convinced her daughter-in-law, Julie Gross, to attend class as well.

Julie said they were a big support to each other.

"I am proud of my achievement," Yvonne said. "Now I plan to go on to take classes at BAC because I want to learn more."

Sharon Crites of Cahokia and her sister, Christi Goodwin of Waterloo, attended night classes together at Cahokia High School.

After they completed the class and the testing, they spoke to other classes about what to expect on test day.

"One of the biggest advantages of our going for the GED together is having a companion on test day," they both agreed.

Peggy Behrman of Albers and her sister, Tammy Toennies of Damiansville, attended class at the Belleville Campus last summer.

Though it was a long drive from their hometowns each night of class, they felt it was the right time for them to pursue an education.

Now, Tammy is enrolled in classes at Sanford Brown Institute in St. Louis and Peggy is investigating programs at BAC.

BAC offers free GED courses throughout the community. For more information, call 235-2700, extension 523, or toll-free in Illinois at 1-800-BAC-5131, extension 523.

Lively Taste

Economical lemon marinade makes thrifty chuck steak an even better buy as it tenderizes it for cooking outside on the grill. Combine 1/3 cup lemon juice, 3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons oil, 1 tablespoon honey, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel, 1/2 teaspoon pepper and 1/4 cup chopped green onion. Pour over chuck steak. Marinate overnight in refrigerator. Grill over medium-high heat, turning, until brown on both sides.

Health & Fitness

Medicine Chest

Dehydration results in many ill effects during summer's heat. To keep the body in balance, drink 6 to 8 full glasses of water daily. A slice of lemon, orange or lime in it gives it a hint of freshness. Exercise and outside activity can increase the requirement.

Fresh Picks

Most vegetables require blanching — briefly steaming or boiling before freezing — to stop the enzyme action that can cause spoilage. However, vegetables used primarily as seasonings in cooking can be frozen raw. Chopped green and red bell pepper, green and yellow onion, scallion, chives, cilantro and other seasonings can be frozen in ice cube trays with 1 teaspoon water per cube. Transfer to resealable freezer bags to use for quick seasoning.

Big Fat Tip

When picking a low-fat cookbook, look at the nutritional analysis of recipes. Main dishes should have no more than 15 grams fat per serving and side dishes no more than 3 to 5 grams fat per serving. Recipes should emphasize using healthful standards like vegetables, fruits and whole grains. Consider how the dishes fit you and your family's lifestyle, too. Are ingredients likely to be on hand or something you would buy? Add up preparation and cooking times to see if they are realistic for your schedule and cooking interest.

Future Shop

A mini golf course may lurk in supermarket lanes. There were no sand traps along the nine-hole mini golf course in an indoor display area of Econo Foods of Dubuque, Iowa, but the fairways featured hazards like packs of soft drinks and beer, packs of paper towels and a bridge of cake mix packages along rented rugs. Almost $2,000 went to charity. The eight-hour tournament was supported by vendors who paid $200 a hole to have a product used and 474 participants who paid $1 each.

Fusilli and Tuna Primavera Salad

Salad Supreme

By Janice Denham
Staff writer

Once upon a time—when the bridges of Illinois's Madison County were as prominent as Iowa's, houses could be ordered through the Sears catalog and every ladies' luncheon included a jiggly gelatin—summer "salad" was a side dish of chunky green lettuce with wedges of tomato and the dressing was orange-French.

When mom set out bologna sandwiches and potato chips or crackers for dinner, it meant her workday outdoors was too long to allow time for cooking. Her ride home from the local town or a friend's house was late, or dad wasn't eating with the family that night.

Today's summer days are spent much differently, so meals don't look the same either.

Ever-exploring food science is finding all those leafy greens and ever-available fresh salad ingredients can move to the big plate nutritiously. Warm ingredients in cool main dishes still make refreshing fare. Salads make any member of a busy family become an efficient cook.

As a side dish to grilled chicken or pasta, salad offers a refreshing counterpoint to the meal. Move that grilled chicken or pasta to the salad and—voilà—it becomes a filling meal. The lightness of salad serves summer well when it is served with bread, grilled sweet potatoes brushed with maple syrup, or even mashed potatoes made with skim milk and a butter flavoring.

Putting together a salad allows personal preferences to pique interest, too.

For instance, salt-free seasonings highlight flavorful herbs. Extra dressing like that in Absolutely Beautiful Chicken Salad can be drizzled over spinach, added to cold cooked

Kids' Cuisine Head Start

Use your head to make salad pay — nutritionally and economically. The Association for Dressings and Sauces and the Produce for Better Health Foundation are holding a national contest to find the best edible sculpture of a head made from fruits, vegetables, dressings and/or sauces. Even a family's non-eaters of salad will want to eat this lettuce: All these good-for-you foods can net $1,000 for the top design and $500 for each of two runners-up.

Here are the rules:

- Use 15 different fruits and/or vegetables as salad ingredients.
- Use at least 1 commercially-prepared salad dressing and/or sauce.
- Create the likeness of a head. Anyone goes: Popeye or Hulk Hogan, Garfield or grandpa.

Send name, address, list of ingredients used, a photo of the creation and, if available or appropriate, a photo of the head depicted to: National Salad Head Competition, Association for Dressings and Sauces, 5775-G Peachtree-Dunwoody Road, Suite 500, Atlanta, Ga. 30342.

• Multiple entries are allowed, but each must be mailed separately by Sept. 1.

Private Label Test Run

Picante sauce from Price Chopper will warm up a party.

Picante sauce adds heat to summer day

Supermarket shelves with Tex-Mex sauces become more crowded each day.

Suburban Journal testers sampled a couple private label brands — Best Choice and Always Save — from Price Chopper on a hot afternoon recently. Their flavors and styles differed greatly.

Best Choice picante sauce — at $1.37 for a 16-ounce jar — comes in three levels of "hot." Medium was chosen for the test. The Always Save brand, priced at $1.09, comes in a one-heat-fit-all flavor. Testers' reactions varied as much as the sauces' flavors.

"The heat is in a different place in your mouth on the two. Best Choice is more subtle, although it still is pretty hot, with the intensity sparked in the back of your mouth. Always Save's initial flavor is very tomato-ish, but heat settles in quickly and sticks to the roof of your mouth," a tester said.

Their consistency differed, too. The more expensive variety — still priced less than national brands — had more bits of onion, pepper and tomato, whereas Always Save was more like a tomato sauce.

A taster who likes hot sauces said this is normal in hotter sauces, but it doesn't bother him.

"I like the peppers and onions in my sauce, no chunks of tomatoes, so it can be saucy for me," he said. He added that the hotter Always Save brand was close to a national brand he buys.

While most tasters preferred the Best Choice brand, several thought the "medium" level might be a little hotter than they would expect. For others it was just right.

"Best Choice is far superior to Always Save. It is thicker and heartier," a taster decided.

Another taster decided the heat in the Always Save brand would be a good contrast to smooth cheese.

Wise Ways

Food dehydration on a roll

By LINDA BLUMENBERG

Drying food is one of the oldest methods of food preservation still useful and convenient today.

Most vegetables and fruits dry well. Even meat jerky is easy to make at home. For instance, five pounds of onions shrink to 12 ounces of onion flakes that keep on a convenient pantry shelf, ready to add flavor to soups, stews and casseroles any time.

Dehydrators come in two basic designs, with either vertical or horizontal air flow.

Units with horizontal air flow have the heating element and fan on the side, rather than on the bottom. This reduces flavor mixing, so several different foods can be dried at one time, all trays receive equal heat penetration and juices or liquids do not drip into the heating element.

Vertical air flow dehydrators, however, usually take less counter space and many models have stackable sections that can be bought separately.

There are other features to notice when choosing a dehydrator:

- Double wall construction of metal or high-grade plastic.
- Enclosed heating element.
- Enclosed thermostat easy to read from 85° to 160°.
- Fan or blower.

• At least four open mesh trays made of sturdy, lightweight plastic for easy cleaning.

- Underwriters' Laboratory (UL) seal of approval.
- A one-year guarantee.
- Dial for regulating temperature.
- Timer with automatic shut-off.

• Instructions telling how often trays must be rotated. Frequent rotation may be inconvenient and indicate uneven heat or air flow in the design.

Local Cooperative Extension offices are an excellent source of information on food drying and other preservation methods. If one is not nearby, write to: Linda Blumenberg, Nutrition Specialist, University Extension, 211 E. Third St., Montgomery City, Mo. 63361.

Fruit Leather is a delicious and economical snack easy to prepare at home in a food dehydrator or oven. Almost any fruit can be used. Apples, apricots, bananas, peaches, pears and plums are especially good.

Certified home economist Linda Blumenberg is nutrition specialist for University Extension (University of Missouri system) in Montgomery County.

FRUIT LEATHER

In blender or food processor, puree about 1 cup fruit chunks at a time. To keep light-colored fruit from darkening, add 1 tablespoon lemon juice per quart of fruit puree.

If puree is very juicy, cook pureed fruit in deep, heavy saucepan over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Cool.

Line dehydrator trays — or cookie sheets if oven drying — with plastic wrap, or use inserts provided by manufacturer. Tape plastic to tray on all four sides to keep it from blowing onto leather. Pour pureed fruit onto plastic wrap. Tilt tray or cookie sheet until fruit is evenly  $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch thick. Leave 1-inch border to allow for spreading.

Dry in dehydrator according to manufacturer's directions. In conventional oven set at 140°, check temperature with oven thermometer frequently; it may be necessary to prop oven door open about 4 inches to keep temperature low enough to avoid scorching leather.

Fruit puree takes 6 to 24 hours to dry. Leather is done when it has leathery appearance and is pliable enough to roll up jellyroll fashion. Test by separating leather from plastic wrap. If it separates easily, it is done. Remove from tray and cool briefly.

Place leather on clean plastic wrap and roll so it separates layers of leather.

Last-minute crisp uses fresh peaches

Diana Klodginski, Des Peres, is the winner of this week's recipe contest for Last-Minute Peach Crisp. For it she wins a prize of dinner certificates from the Pasta House Co.

She has been using this easy dessert recipe at least 15 years. It originally was in a Houston newspaper. "It never is left over," she says. To save calories and fat, she now serves it with frozen yogurt instead of ice cream.

One recipe per household can be sent to: Frozen Dessert Recipe Contest, Suburban Journals, 1714 Deer Tracks Trail, St. Louis, Mo. 63131.

As usual, if there is a history to the recipe, it will be considered part of the entry. Along with taste and eye appeal, it will be used as a basis for selecting winners.

Originality will be considered, although the recipe need not be original.

Peaches: Plum perfect for cool micro-raving

Microwave cooking is just peachy. There is no quicker or cooler way to prepare them and other fruits of summer with a minimum of fuss and bother.

Colorful and delicious peaches from California are plentiful. They also are available from Southern markets and the lucky ones who seek out locally grown fruit can be rewarded now, too.

Nothing compares to the taste of freshly-picked, tree-ripened peaches. Select peaches from the tree or produce department that are free of blemishes. Peaches picked before their prime ripeness soften and ripen on the countertop at room temperature in a day or two. To hasten ripening, keep them in a loosely closed paper bag with other plums, apples or bananas.

Two basic kinds of peaches are clingstone and freestone. The former clingstone is better suited to canning. Because freestone varieties do not hold their shape as well, they are used for freezing and are ideal for eating out-of-hand.

A fresh peach pie is the perfect end to a summer evening on the patio. From start to finish, preparation time can be less than 30 minutes. Pie filling cooks while a pastry crust is baked in a conventional oven, or for quicker preparation, use a prepared graham cracker crust.

This recipe from the "Microwave Cooks" (Ballentine Books, 1990) offers all the charm of southern hospitality.

Home economist Judy Eddy specializes in microwave cooking.

FRESH PEACH PIE

- 1 baked or prepared graham cracker crust
- 6 cups peeled, sliced fresh peaches

- 2 tsp. lemon juice
- 1 1/4 cups sugar
- 3 tsp. cornstarch
- 1 tsp. peach schnapps
- Whipped cream or topping

Place half the peaches in bowl. Sprinkle with lemon juice. Stir to prevent darkening.

Puree remaining peaches in blender or food processor. In microwave-safe bowl, combine pureed peaches with sugar and cornstarch. Stir well to blend.

Microwave on high power 3 to 4 minutes until mixture begins to boil. Reduce temperature to medium (50 percent) power. Cook 4 to 5 minutes until thickened. Stir in schnapps.

Cool to room temperature. Pour 1/2 cup separate glaze in bottom of crust. Arrange reserved sliced peaches over glaze. Pour remaining glaze to cover fruit. Chill until serving time.

Before serving, top each peachy piece with generous spoonful of whipped cream.

A bagged sandwich lunch at the desk is as big a hit as last night's meat and potatoes from the grill.

Salem, IL 62881

Bus: 618-548-5500

Recipe

SUMMER CAMP RAVIOLI

- 1 cup diced zucchini
- 1 cup diced onion
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1 cup diced carrot
- 1 tsp. butter or margarine
- 1/4 tsp. nutmeg
- 2 cans (15 oz. each) ravioli

In medium skillet, saute zucchini, onion, celery and carrot in butter. Add nutmeg and ravioli. Cook, covered, over medium heat 5 to 10 minutes.

BEER-BARREL BARBECUE SAUCE

- 1/2 cup beer
- 1 cup ketchup
- 1 tsp. butter or margarine
- 1 tsp. chili powder
- 1 tsp. brown sugar
- 1 tsp. onion salt
- 2 tsp. soy sauce
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. black pepper
- 1/2 tsp. poultry seasoning

In small saucepan, combine beer, ketchup, butter, chili powder, brown sugar, onion salt, soy sauce, salt, pepper and poultry seasoning. Bring to boil. Simmer over low heat 10 minutes. Use on hamburgers or pork chops.

Slow-cooking gives ribs a deep flavor and tender bite.

Ribs rub griller right on way to American meal

Many cooks feel ribs must be a part of their grilling repertoire at least once a summer. There are several different types.

Pork back ribs, cut from the blade and center section of the pork loin, contain rib bones and the "finger meat" between the ribs. Spare ribs come from the underbelly or side of the hog. They have the least meat, but some devotees pick them as the most flavorful.

Country-style from the rib end is the meatiest cut. Boneless ribs are formed from creative cutting. Both of these require about half as much uncooked meat per serving as the spare ribs and back ribs.

Slow-cooked ribs yield the most tender, tastiest meat. To grill them, use indirect heat, banking hot coals on one side and meat on the other side of the covered grill. Start checking for doneness in 1 1/2 hours. Those who simmer ribs before grilling can cook them in a combination of liquid smoke and water (one to 10-or-more ratio) 1 hour.

Add sauce only when the meat is almost finished cooking so flavors adhere without charring. Ribs are considered done when the meat is just ready to be wigged from the bone.

These ribs have a pre-grilling application of dry spicy flavorings.

Lemon, dill, mustard and pepper are other favorite rub flavors.

One way to cut the high fat in ribs is to cut them in riblets and serve in smaller portions as appetizers.

APPETIZER JERK RIBS

- 2 lb. pork back ribs
- 2 tsp. dried minced onion
- 1 tsp. onion powder
- 4 tsp. ground thyme
- 2 tsp. salt
- 2 tsp. ground allspice
- 1/2 tsp. nutmeg
- 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 2 tsp. black pepper
- 1 tsp. cayenne pepper

In small jar with tight-fitting lid, shake together minced onion, onion powder, thyme, salt, allspice, nutmeg, cinnamon, sugar, black and cayenne peppers until well blended.

Rub on all surfaces of ribs.

Grill ribs over indirect heat in covered grill, turning occasionally, about 1 1/2 hours until ribs are very tender, or roast ribs in rack in shallow pan in 350° oven 1 1/2 hours.

Cut in 1- or 2-rib portions to serve. Makes 10 servings; 155 calories, 10 g protein, 10 g fat, 461 mg sodium and 43 mg cholesterol each.

CAJUN RIBS

- 4 lb. pork back ribs (about 2 whole slabs)
- 2 tsp. paprika
- 2 tsp. salt
- 2 tsp. onion powder
- 2 tsp. garlic powder
- 2 tsp. red pepper
- 1 1/2 tsp. white pepper
- 1/2 tsp. black pepper
- 1 tsp. leaf thyme
- 1 tsp. leaf oregano

Combine paprika, salt, onion and garlic powders, red, white and black peppers, thyme and oregano.

Grill ribs on covered grill over indirect heat 1 1/2 hours. Cut ribs in serving-size pieces.

Makes 4 servings; 729 cal.

TOMATO JUICE COCKTAIL

Combine 4 cups tomato juice, 1/2 cup orange juice, 1/4 cup lemon juice, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon dry basil, 1/4 teaspoon onion salt and several drops hot sauce. Refrigerate, covered, overnight to blend flavors. Serve thoroughly chilled. Makes about 4 1/2 cups.

Refreshing fruit tickles summer to perfection

For a cool, sweet, low-fat summer treat, look no further. Peaches are in season.

Peaches are an American summertime favorite, ranking only behind apples and bananas. They are a good source of B vitamins, antioxidant vitamins A and C, and dietary fiber when eaten with the skin.

Peaches are refreshing, too. High in water content, they quench thirst.

Frozen peaches make a chilling snack. Just place peach slices in a single layer on a cookie sheet, sprinkle with a little lemon juice to keep them from turning brown, freeze a couple hours, then put them in a freezer bag for longer storage.

Another icy idea is to puree peaches in a food processor, freeze in ice cube trays and store in a freezer bag. Use the peach cubes in drinks, or mix in a blender with milk, a bit of honey and a little wheat germ for a tasty and nutritious breakfast drink.

Picking perfect peaches means avoiding those that show any tinge of green and choosing them with a yellowish or creamy background color. They should be firm but not hard. They also should be blemish-free and covered with smooth skin. Most importantly, they should have the enticing aroma of peach nectar.

Keep peaches at room temperature until soft enough to eat, then refrigerate and use as soon as possible.

For a delicious summer dessert, try them halved, pitted and broiled, sprinkled with a bit of lemon juice and a cinnamon sugar mixture. One-half teaspoon jelly also can go into the hollow of a peach half before broiling.

Peach sauce is a tantalizing topper for low-fat frozen yogurt, ice cream or angel food cake. Just peel, slice and pit a pound of peaches, then add them to  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup boiling water. Cover. Return to boil. Reduce heat and simmer, stirring occasionally, 5 to 8 minutes. Stir in  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup sugar. Simmer 1 minute longer.

For another sensational summer dessert, there's Peach Cobbler with Biscuit Topping which can be made with fresh or frozen peaches.

Registered dietitian Melanie Polk is director of nutrition education for the American Institute for Cancer Research.

PEACH COBBLER WITH BISCUIT TOPPING

4 cups peeled, sliced fresh peaches
1 tbs. plus 1 cup flour
4 tbs. packed light brown

sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. cinnamon
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup yellow cornmeal
2 tsp. baking powder
 $\frac{1}{4}$  tsp. baking soda
 $\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. salt, if desired
 $\frac{3}{4}$  cup buttermilk
3 tbs. oil
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup vanilla frozen yogurt, if desired

Preheat oven to 400°.

Combine peaches, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 tablespoon brown sugar and cinnamon in 9- or 10-inch square baking dish or pie plate. Toss to blend.

In large bowl, stir together 1 cup flour, cornmeal, 3 tablespoons brown sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt.

Stir buttermilk and oil together until blended, then add to dry ingredients. Stir just to mix; batter will be lumpy. Spoon over surface of peach mixture.

Bake in preheated oven 40 to 45 minutes until top is lightly browned and peaches are bubbly.

Serve warm. Top with frozen yogurt.

Makes 8 servings, 200 calories and 6 g fat each.

Note: One bag (20 ounces) sliced frozen peaches, thawed and drained, can be used instead of fresh peaches.

Men Who Cook at center

St. Louis Men Who Cook will line up Saturday, July 22, to share samples of their favorite fare. The event — featuring professional, amateur, celebrity and children categories — will begin at 11 a.m. at America's Center at Cervantes Convention Center.

The event has mushroomed quickly, says chairperson Ellie Townsley.

"Last year we only had 20 cooks. Right now it's getting close to 150. It is in its fifth year," she says.

The professional category will be judged by the St. Louis Chefs de Cuisine, while other categories will compete for prizes in the area of creativity.

"This is an expo as well, with exhibitors who can sell their wares, like crafts, seasonings and spices, interior decorating products and even computer products," Townsley says.

At the same time, booths will be set up by community service groups to share information and wares. The Variety Club and American Cancer Society will be among those participating.

Celebrity cooks will include several from radio stations, as well as Major Donald Cognata of the St. Louis Police Department, Earl Wilson of Gateway Classic, Joe Palmer of the Rainbow Chamber of Commerce, Wayman Smith from Anheuser-Busch and Mormon Keaton of Suburban Journals.

While the event is scheduled until 7 p.m., the tastings may be depleted before that time, so it should pay to be an early-bird. There will be entertainment, including demonstrations and cooking tips given by the Chefs de Cuisine.

Admission of $7 for adults, $3 for children and $6 for senior citizens will be discounted $1 if a canned good is brought for donation to Metro Ministry. Health Care for the Homeless Coalition will receive part of the proceeds from a cookbook that includes many of the recipes prepared by St. Louis Men Who Cook.

Janice Denham is food editor of Suburban Journals.

HOW CLOSE ARE WE TO A CURE FOR CANCER?

While advances in medical research have given thousands of Americans with cancer more hope than ever, we still haven't been able to solve the most basic problem of transportation.

But you can help. And we hope you will. Through the American Cancer Society's Road to Recovery program, you can help by volunteering to drive a cancer patient to and from a treatment facility. If you have a car, safe driving skills, and can drive as little as one morning or afternoon a month, you can help give someone the most precious of all gifts: the chance for a fuller life.

For more information, call your American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-9245. Call today. And help us drive cancer from the face of the earth.
